WHAT IS SEXTORTION?

★SB 73★

MAKES SEXTORTION A CRIME

This law ensures that students and parents are educated about the dangers of sextortion and know where to seek help.

KNOW THE SIGNS:

- Unsolicited messages from strangers online.
- Requests for private or explicit images.
- Threats to share your images with others if you don't comply.

SEXTORTION IS

A serious crime where someone threatens to share your private images or information unless you send more, give them money, or do something you don't want to do.

WHAT YOU CAN DO:

- Don't respond to threatening messages.
- Save all communications and evidence.
- Tell a trusted adult, teacher, or school counselor.
- Report the incident to local law enforcement.

YOU'RE NOT ALONE.

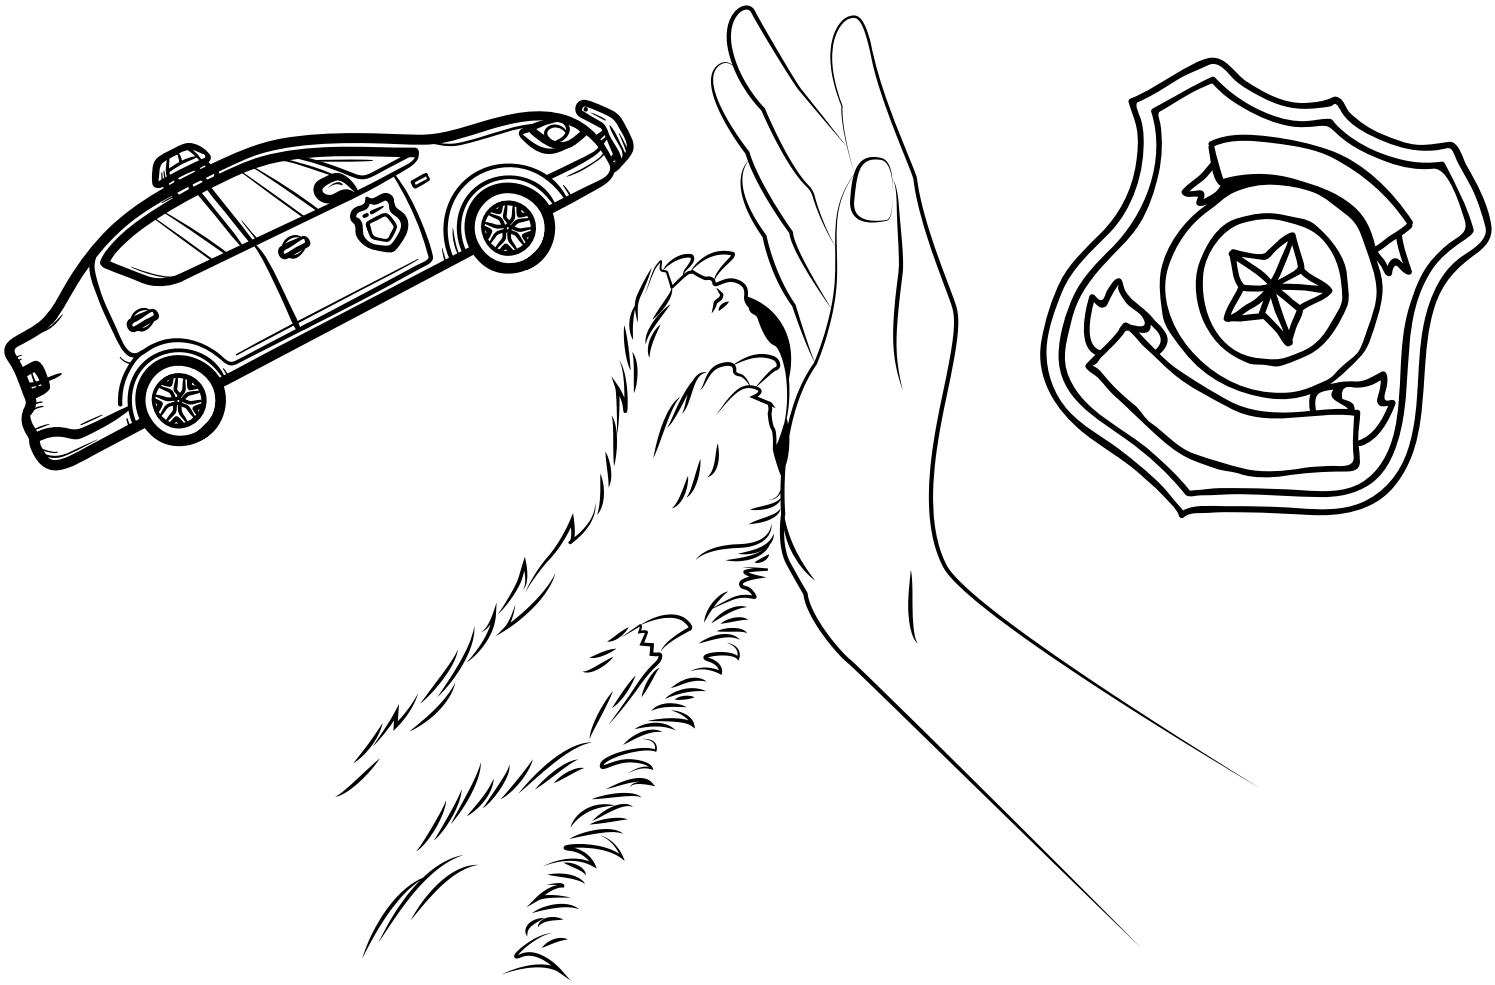
This is Cam and May. They may look like ordinary dogs, but they have a very special job.

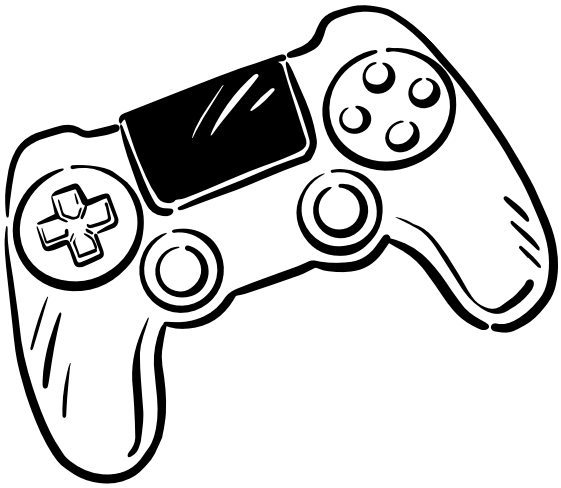
Cam

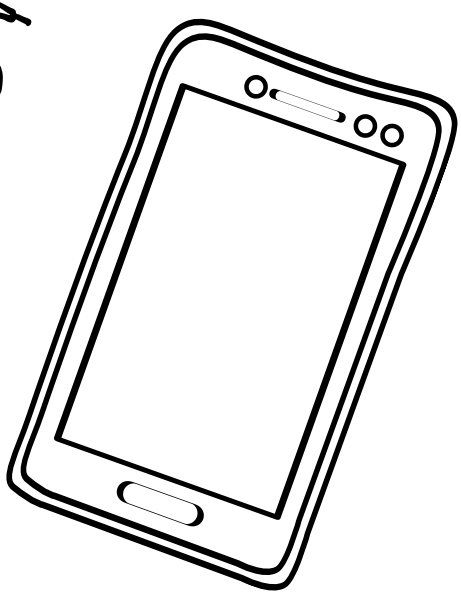
May

Cam and May are trained to find electronics like phones and computers just by smelling them! They work for the Kentucky State Police helping them sniff out electronics when people are using them to break the law.

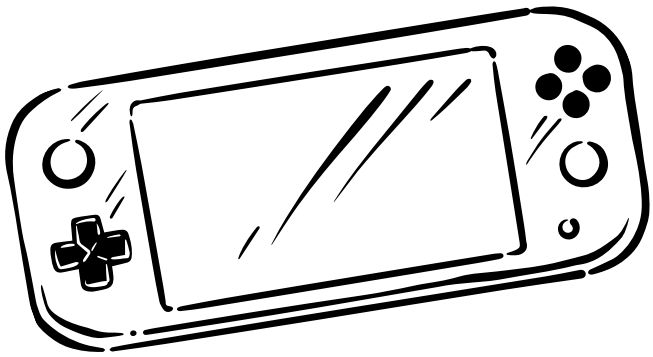


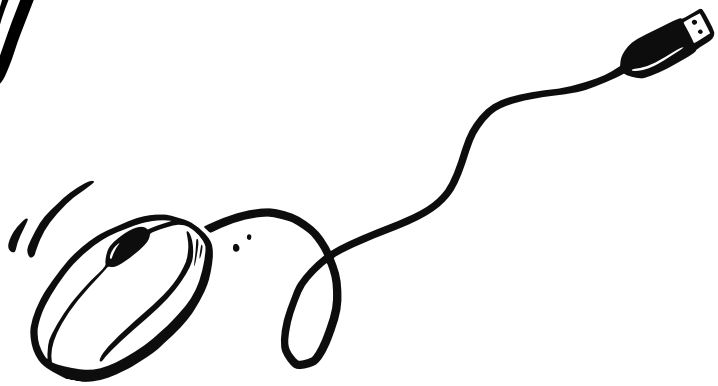
Great Job Cam and May!



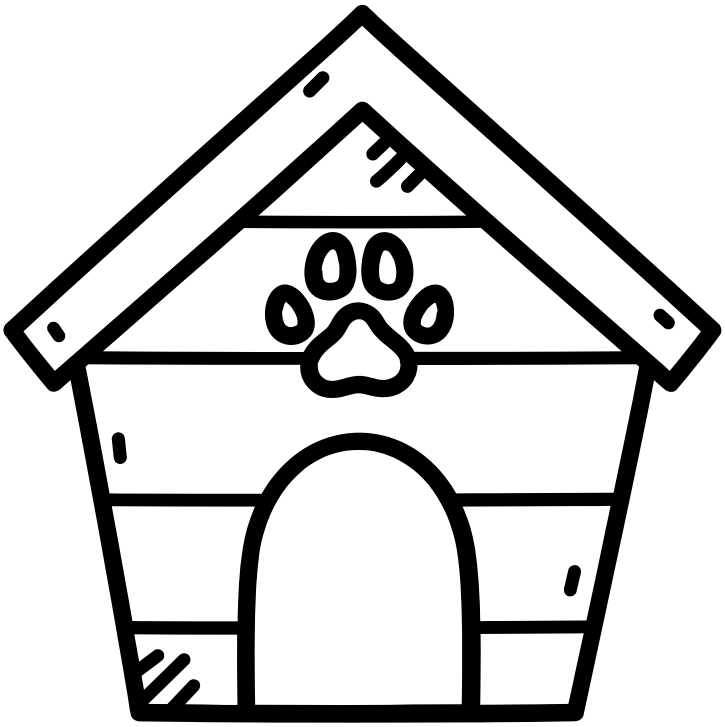


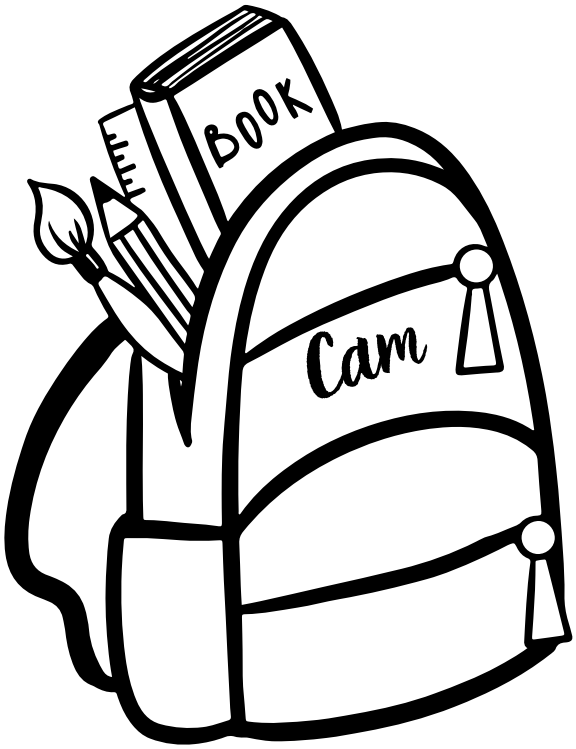
Electronics like phones, computers, and gaming consoles can be a lot of fun, but they can also be unsafe if you don't follow the rules of internet safety. Luckily, Cam and May have some electronic safety tips for you!



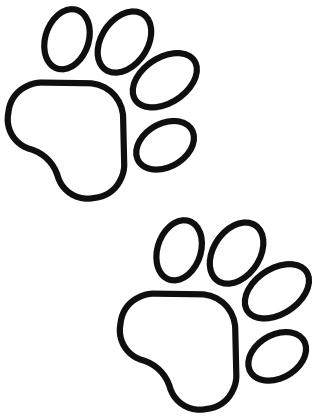


First, never share personal information online! That includes your full name, your address, your age and what school you go to.

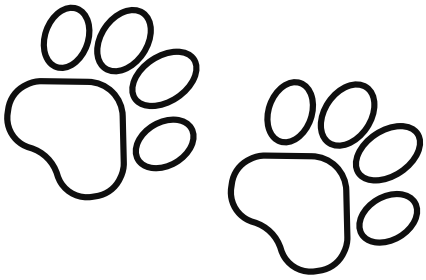




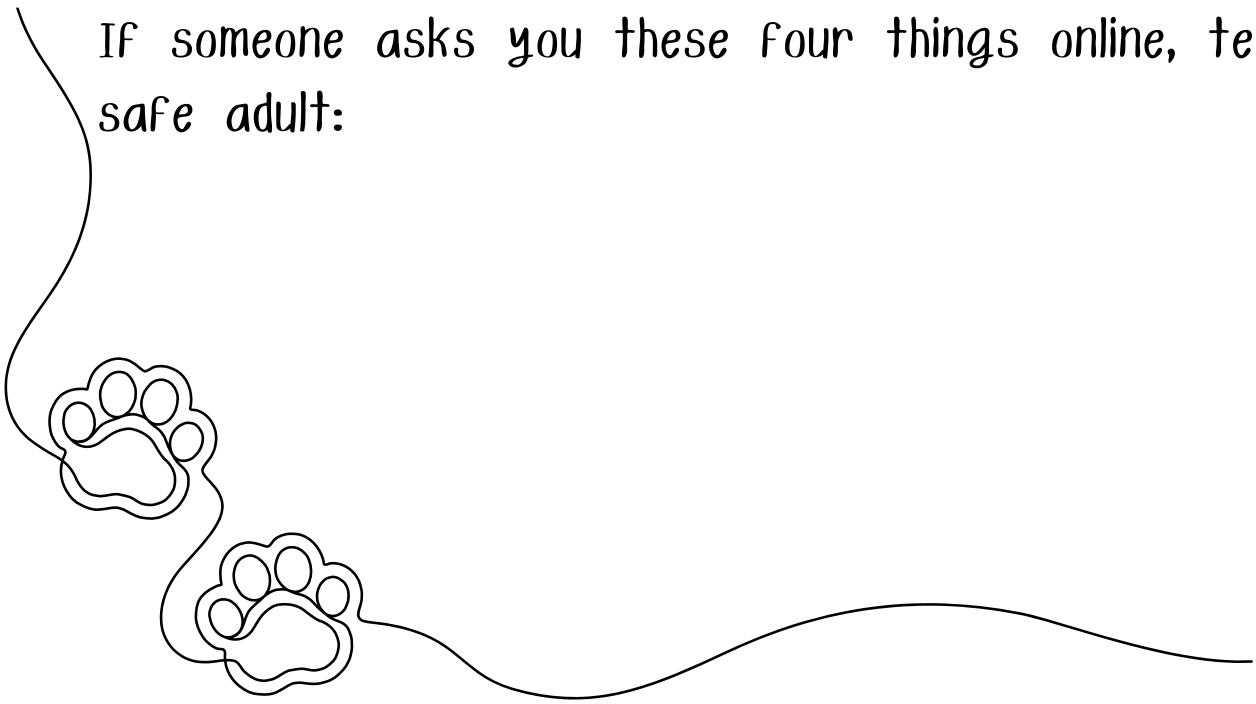
Never agree to meet someone in real life who you met online. If someone asks you to meet them in real life, tell a safe adult like a family member or teacher.



Write the name of a safe adult:



If someone asks you these four things online, tell a safe adult:



Do not send or share photos of yourself online without the permission of a safe adult. Keep your photos to share with friends and family, print them out to save in a photo album, or make a fun collage!

Teasing, threatening, embarrassing or harassing someone online is called cyberbullying. If someone is cyberbullying you, tell an adult.

Remember the Golden Rule! Treat others the way you would want to be treated. Be kind online, no matter who you are talking to.

Always remember, it is NEVER your fault if someone is unkind or tricks you online. Some people seem nice on the internet, even though they do not have good intentions. Thanks to Cam and May, now you know what to do to keep yourself safe online. Have fun!

10 THINGS PARENTS NEED TO KNOW

ABOUT INTERNET SAFETY

1. Set boundaries inside the home:
   a.WHO a child communicates with.
   b.WHAT technology children can use.
   c.WHERE a child can go online.
   d.WHEN a child can use technology.
2. Teach children to protect their name, identity, and reputation while online.
3. Have hard conversations about sexting and cyberbullying.

   a. Positive actions produce positive results.

INTERNET SAFETY

Prevent Child Abuse Kentucky™

4. Monitor children's electronic devices and online activities.
   a. Be involved, but don't SPY.
5. Establish "screen time" limits in the home.
6. Keep electronics in a secured area of the home at nighttime.
7. Start Early: talk to children about online safety by age 7 or younger if a child has internet access.
   a. 40% of teens think it is normal for people their age to share explicit images with each other.
8. Listen Often: listen with empathy and understanding to establish trust.
9. Avoid Shame: teach children it is NEVER their fault if someone abuses, betrays, or tricks them.
10. REMEMBER! Online predators sound nice and eagerly try to establish an online relationship with children.

To report online child sexual exploitation, call 1-800-THE LOST or make an online report at report.cybertip.org.
